

CORPORATE TEAM BUILDING

Climb the Corporate Ladder

Rock climbing offers a succinct objective - get to the top. Our facilitators apply logical and practical climbing metaphors that relate to the individual as well as the collective in order to promote and sustain successful business goals and practices. We encourage individuals to recognize that it is the parts that work together to create the whole, and that in all aspects of life and business, our roles are interdependent. For example: A climber cannot reach the top without the help of a belay partner.

At Kiwi Rock Climbing we effectively apply experiential learning to establish the importance of acquiring, developing and sharing communication skills to achieve success in business, as well as in our personal lives.
